Re Item IV

1. This Authority considers that there are 2 inventions covered by the claims indicated as follows:

- I: Claims 1 to 25 directed to an apparatus for cutting turf, for soil de-compacting and for soil drainage comprising a tool which leading portion of said tool is disposed substantially vertically below an axis of rotation of at least one axle of the ground engaging means
- II: Claims 26 to 31 directed to an apparatus for soil drainage and irrigation comprising a trench generating means

2. The reasons for which the inventions are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept, as required by Rule 13.1 PCT, are as follows:

Examining the possible correspondence by technical effect, one finds that the technical effect as well as the objective problem of the first invention is that the sods of turf cut will have a consistent thickness or pipes laid will be at a regular depth below surface and that the technical effect and the corresponding objective problem of the second invention is to generate a trench in the soil.

This appears to show lack of corresponding technical effect. Consequently, neither the objective problem underlying the subjects of the claimed inventions, nor their solutions defined by the special technical features allow for a relationship to be established between the said inventions, which involves a single general inventive concept.

3. In conclusion, the groups of claims are not linked by common or corresponding special technical features and define 2 different inventions not linked by a single general inventive concept.

The application, hence does not meet the requirements of unity of invention as defined in Rules 13.1 and 13.2 PCT.

Re Item V

1. Reference is made to the following documents:

D1: GB-A-2 379 150

D2: US-A-5 690 178

D3: US-A-5 009 270

D4: US-A-2 942 674

2. Claims 1 to 25

2.1 The present application does not meet the criteria of Article 33(1) PCT, because the subject-matter of claim 1 is not new in the sense of Article 33(2) PCT.

The document D1 discloses (the references in parentheses applying to this document) an apparatus for cutting turf, for soil de-compacting and for soil drainage and irrigation (p. 1, l. 4-7), the apparatus comprising a chassis (10) having ground engaging means (74, 76), an adjustable working arm (18, 20) having a chassis-engaging end movably mounted on the chassis (p. 5, l. 3-4) and a tool-engaging end having means for receiving a tool (p. 5, l. 4-5), means for oscillating the tool-engaging end of the adjustable working arm (p. 5, l. 6-9) wherein the oscillating means comprises a drive means mounted on the chassis and a connecting means mounted intermediate the drive means and the adjustable working arm (p. 5, l. 6-9).

D1 further describes at least one axle (see figures 2A and 4) of the ground engaging means having wheel means (74, 76) mounted thereon. The apparatus of D1 also comprises a leading portion of a tool (see figure 2A) mounted on the tool receiving means (p. 5, l. 4-5) which is disposed substantially vertically below an axis of rotation of the axle (axle of wheel 76, see figure 2A).

The subject-matter of claim 1 therefore is not new (Article 33(2) PCT).

Also D2 describes a similar apparatus with the same features and therefore, the subject-matter of claim 1 is also not new over D2.

- 2.2 The dependent claims 2 to 25 do not contain any features which, in combination with the features of any claim to which they refer, meet the requirements of the PCT in respect of novelty and/or inventive step, see documents D1 and D4 and the corresponding passages cited in the search report.

3. Claims 26 to 31

- 3.1 The present application does not meet the criteria of Article 33(1) PCT, because the subject-matter of claim 26 is not new in the sense of Article 33(2) PCT.

The document D1 discloses (the references in parentheses applying to this document) an apparatus for cutting turf, for soil de-compacting and for soil drainage and irrigation (p. 1, l. 4-7), the apparatus comprising a chassis (10) having ground engaging means (74, 76), an adjustable working arm (18, 20) having a chassis-engaging end movably mounted on the chassis (p. 5, l. 3-4) and a tool-engaging end having means for receiving a tool (p. 5, l. 4-5), means for oscillating the tool-engaging end of the adjustable working arm (p. 5, l. 6-9) wherein the oscillating means comprises a drive means mounted on the chassis and a connecting means mounted intermediate the drive means and the adjustable working arm (p. 5, l. 6-9).

Furthermore, D1 also shows a trench generating means (p. 9; l. 23-24), mounted on the tool receiving means of the adjustable working arm (see figure 10), said trench generating means comprising a wedge blade (12') having a leading edge blade (see figures 9 and 10) and a trailing edge having means for receiving material (as mentioned on p. 10, l. 1-3: ... designed to cut a deep narrow trench, when the earth is removed..., this necessarily needs means for receiving the material which cut by the leading edge blade).

The subject-matter of claim 26 therefore is not new (Article 33(2) PCT).

- 3.2 Dependent claims 27 to 31 do not contain any features which, in combination with the features of any claim to which they refer, meet the requirements of the PCT in respect of novelty and/or inventive step, see documents D1 and D4 and the corresponding passages cited in the search report.

4. The requirements of Article 33(4) PCT concerning industrial applicability are fulfilled by claims 1 to 31.

Re Item VII

1. Independent claim 1 and 26 are not in the two-part form in accordance with Rule 6.3(b) PCT, which in the present case would be appropriate, with those features known in combination from the prior art (D1) being placed in the preamble (Rule 6.3(b)(I) PCT) and with the remaining features being included in the characterising part (Rule 6.3(b)(ii) PCT).
2. Claim 32 contains a reference to the drawings. According to Rule 6.2(a) PCT, claims should not contain such references except where absolutely necessary, which is not the case here.
3. Contrary to the requirements of Rule 5.1(a)(ii) PCT, the relevant background art disclosed in D1 is not mentioned in the description, nor is this document identified therein.
